Scarlet Coated RCMP Lead Parade

ANN MARSTON, former Miss America candidate, can snuff out the flame of a candle at impossible distances with her bow and arrow. She'll be a featured attraction at the Edmonton Exhibition's free grandstand show Monday through Friday of next week. She has broken the world's double-field round score, firing 939 points out of a possible 1,000. It is believed to be the highest score ever shot by a woman archer in competition.

Postponed Sports Day Starts Off With Baseball Tournament

LAC LA BICHE — Scarlet-coated RCMP headed the colorful parade to lead off the second day of annual sports events which were postponed to July 2 and 3 due to rain.

The tournament began July 2, with baseball action between Lac La Biche and Kikino, with Lac La Biche leading by 10-1. St. Lina defeated Grassland 14-2; Glendon defeated Wandering River 14-2 and Amber Valley took Vilna by a score of 5-4.

The second day Lac La Biche defeated St. Lina 6-1; Glendon defeated Vilna 4-0. Lac La Biche defeated Glendon 6-1 to take top money.

Girls soft ball, first day Lac La Biche defeated Venice 18-13.

The second day Boyle defaulted to Grassland, Lac La Biche defeated Grassland 7-2.

Boys' Pony Team, Boyle defeated Lac La Biche 13-9.

Boys' Pony-Grad, Athabasca defeated Lac La Biche 3-2.

There were no home runs hit either day.

Winners of the float contest were first, Lac La Biche, Clinic second. Judges for the float contest were Nick Chodan, Mrs. Lucille Jocas and Mrs. Pearl Hayduk. J. Williams was in charge of parade arrangements again this year.

The second night a gigantic fireworks display drew large crowds. The Lac La Biche Volunteer Fire Brigade was in charge.

A dance in the Memorial Hall Monday evening finished off the day.

Students Often Too Proud To Admit Appreciation Of Parents

LAC LA BICHE — "Graduation is a notable occasion for all of us and certainly worth remembering. We grads, although sometimes too proud to admit it, have received much help in addition to our own efforts in reaching senior high school."

Carole Palylyk realized this while proposing a toast to the parents at spring graduation ceremonies for the Dr. Swift class of '61.

"We have not only our teachers to thank, but also our parents. Our parents recognized the fact that education is an inestimable privilege and opens many doors to the future. Through countless sacrifices, in spite of innumerable discouragements, our parents have made it possible for us to continue our education right into senior high school. We all realize the great contribution our parents have made and hope that we have done something of which they can be proud."

Predicting the futures that would arise from this backing, members of the class had these class prophesies prepared and read at the evening.

CAROL PALYLYK

Carol always loved to sketch. In grade XII she started with sketching earthworms. The walls of Dr. Swift's High soon became plastered with Carol's sketchings of earthworms, so in June '61 the professors of this talented art student decided to ship Carol to B.C., where earthworms are more common. Today if you stroll into an art gallery in Vancouver, you will recognize Carol's sketchings of earthworms. However, in spite of the acclaim of the experts, Carol couldn't make a living with her art. She found that just nobody wanted to pay for her pictures of worms. Fortunately she managed to combine business with pleasure. She now has a little farm near Horseshoe Bay where she raises earthworms to sell to anglers, so she is never short of subjects for her art.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:

A surprising decision was made by the local town council at their regular meeting of June 27, 1961, turning down a request by the local merchants to change the closing day from Thursday to Monday. Although the request was supported by over 90% of the town merchants, the council turned it down with the slim excuse that the change would discourage business for the town.

I am sure that the merchants are just as much concerned agout encouraging business in town as the council or any other resident, as that is their livelihood, and they would certainly not consider changing the day if it made that much difference.

To be truthful about the matter, Thursday is one of the more unsatisfactory days for store closing, with exception of Friday or Saturday.

It is a known fact that Friday and Saturday are always the busiest days of the week and it crowds most of the work in the week into these two days, and to be able to cope with the situation, the merchants often have to work on Thursday anyway. Another reason that Thursday is unsuitable day for closing stores is the fact that this district is the only one in the country that has a Thursday closing by-law, also most group advertising usually suggests the commencement of sales, etc. to start Thursdays, and it seems foolish to advertise for these sales when the stores are all closed.

The council does not take the liberty to close other businesses such as garages, banks, etc., they close when its suitable for them to do so. In fairness to the merchants of the town, the town council should reconsider their decision, the town fathers do not have to worry because the merchants are not going to cut their own throats for the sake of changing of their day off.

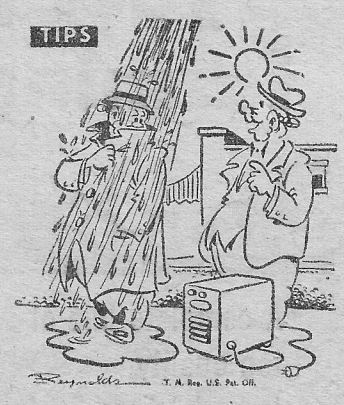
Ratepayer,
Lac la Biche.

J. Trefenanko And E. Mandrusiak Open Doodle Bug Variety Store

Latest addition to the town's business places is the "Doodle Bug Variety Store" which opened for business July 7 in the John Onufruw building on Athabasca Ave., between Fisher and Nanton Street.

Proprietors are John Trefenanko and Ed Mandrusiak.

They plan to carry men's, ladies' and children's clothing and shoes, jewelry, hardware, toys and notions as well as novelty gifts, and a good line of fishing equipment.



I had the same problem until I got the dehumidifier in Alberta Country Life ads!

Shirley Arnfinson Swallows Coin

On her parents return she was taken to the Royal Alexandra Hospital, Edmonton, where the quarter, which had lodged in an upright position, was removed without difficulty.

TREES GROW OLD

Trees do not increase in value indefinitely. They grow old and go out of the commercial class just as any other plant does. In the case of some varieties this may take 100 years. But pine for pulp can be ready for market in some parts of our country in as little as 10 years.

Students Often To Proud ...

DONNA HAMAR

After eyeing all the specimens of her class, the different shapes and wrong sizes, Donna decided to improve this civilization of ours by making everyone more uniform. Right after high school, Donna left Lac la Biche and took up Home Economics. We talked to her the other day and she is determined to get back to Lac la Biche and establish her own Home Economics room in the new Dr. Swift School there. This verse will describe her well:

Recently Donna has received a reputation
For improving funny people of the nation,
Some fubble, some shortener, reducer too,
They're all included in Donna's brew.
Donna fed her brew to the nations all,
To thin fat people, and shorten the tall.

ANNETTA SENETZA

Now back in school, Nita was a delicate girl
And her voice just matched her size,
But since she began her teaching career
Not one of you would believe your eyes!
For her kiddies in school were so very bad
That her voice box just grew and grew.
And now our fragile Annetta asserts
That Khrushchev could hear her from the moon to the earth.

ELAINE LOBAY

We remember Elaine Lobay as an ambitious, obedient student. During high school she really could not make up her mind what she should do in the future. She decided that to be able to keep up her expensive wardrobe, she must specialize in a high-paying job. A few lines of verse will best describe her:

Elaine always had a yearning
To do something with lots of learning,
Veterinarian, doctor, professor, and such
She finally picked teaching,
Which she likes very much.

GERARD LANGEVIN

As we gaze into our crystal ball we see Gerard Langevin is now the proud part-owner of Tri-Way Service Garage. Business is so good that Gerard has decided he can now afford a wife. Although Gerard is now ready for marriage, he is still unable to overcome his bad habit of sleeping in every morning, the way he used to in high school. Tri-Way Service is closed today since it's Garard's wedding day. To make sure he doesn't sleep in this morning, Gerard has left his window open so the school bell will be sure to awaken him. The people are all waiting in church and it's an hour late and his petite soft-spoken bride is daintly dabbing her tears. But where is Gerard? (pause) We're sorry, Honey, but Gerard won't be here for hours yet. You see, it's Saturday morning and there's no school bell.

LOYE McCULLOUGH

Have you ever heard of bashful Loye
And how she loved to curl?
She planned to become a lady champ
To beat Gervais was the dream of this girl.
But one thing more about our Loye,
Though a perfect skip she made,
Only every time she threw a rock
She blushed till her rock was laid.
And then one day she met Gervais,
And the score stood five to three,
And while around stood all her friends,
She threw a rock, and jumped with glee.
But from her lips disappeared that smile,
For you see, e'en while her heart had soared,
She'd knocked in a rock, and Gervais had scored.
So Hec Gervais is still a winner,
And Loye McCullough, another beginner.

DEANNE POHRANYCHNY

When Deanne appeared in the school hallway two years ago, everyone thought that Brigitte Bardot had escaped from Hollywood. However, after hearing of no reward offered for the capture of her dead or alive, the lads of Dr. Swift High decided to retain her for her ornamental qualities. They succeeded in doing so for ten years, but now, 1972, we hear that Brigitte's facsimile is a hair designer in romanic Pari. In her spare time she paints, and at the moment she is starring in a new French film, "The Case of the Kidnapped Blonde."

LINDA PRICE

Though Linda was never the type that was determined to reach the top and trample over everybody else in the process, she did have a philosophy all her own. Linda's philosophy would have made Khrushchev beam as it fits his propaganda beautifully, for her motto was "happy co-existence". Linda believed that what the world needed was not more mathematicians and scientists who could destroy the world, but the solution lay with the prospects of more good home-makers. Rather than embark on a professional career, Linda is now happy in the noblest profession of them all. Immediately after graduation she set out to earn her M.R.S. Now in '72 she entered her name in a world competition as the most successful and contented mother. As an exhibit in her favor she is bringing along her well fed 250 lb. husband. With her radiant smile she is rated at 10 to 1 to win.

OLGA KOVALUK

Olga had quite a time deciding what to do in the future. One thing that Olga was always certain about was that the most welcome sight to any woman was that of a man. She had contemplated teaching as a career but became convinced that with so many girls of the '61 graduating class determined to become teachers, the field was bound to become overcrowded. Being the practical type, Olga approached this whole problem scientifically and decided that the easier way out would be to marry one.

Now Olga is a teacher's wife,
The giggling joy of Peter's life.
And for all teachers a job there'll be,
Because she has quite a family.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Hughes and family came to Caslan to attend the funeral of Mrs. Hughes' grandmother Mrs. Matushek Sr.

Jacqueline Bossel Weds John Matoga In Double-Ring Wedding Ceremony

A June double-ring wedding of wide interest was solemnized in St. Phillips Church recently when Miss Jacqueline Bossel, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jules Bossel of Atmore, became the bride of John Matoga of Spruce Valley.

The bride chose a full-length bridal gown of net over lace encrusted with pearls and sequins over a hooped skirt. The neckline was a scalloped lace. Her chapel veil misted from a cornet of sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses. Her only jewellery was a single strand of cultured pearls, a gift from the groom.

Attending the bride were Miss Stella Ewach, attired in azure blue chiffon. Miss Claudette Bossel, sister of the bride, and Miss Rita Parrent were both dressed in yellow nylon net over taffeta with matching cummerbund of silk organza fastening in a large bow at the back. All the bridesmaids wore matching floral hats and carried nosegays of roses.

The groom was attended by his two brothers, Mr. Mike Matoga, Mr. Henry Matoga and a friend, Mr. Julian Bizon. The groom and the best men were handsomely attired in their charcoal suits and matching ties.

The bride entered the church on her father's arm while her aunt, Mrs. John Ginoud, played the wedding march.

Rev. Father Albert Noel sang the Nuptial Mass, assisted by Rev. O'Farrel of Boyle. The choir was under the direction of Rev. Father F. Crouteau of Plamondon.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bossel chose an embossed pink taffeta on grey background. Her hat was pink and she wore a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Matoga was dressed in green lace and also wore a corsage of pink roses.

The reception followed in the Grassland Community Centre. The bride's table was centred with a three tiered wedding cake. The tables were decorated and set with peonies and fresh garden flowers. Mr. Mike Maccagno, local Member of Parliament, acted as master of ceremonies. He read messages of congratulations from Rev. Rekowski, formerly of the groom's parish, now in Manitoba, and "T'ante Marcelline", the bride's aunt who visited here recently from Switzerland.

Father O'Farrel proposed the toast to the bride and groom responded.

The happy couple left for a honeymoon to the west coast. For travelling the bride donned a beige tweed suit with white accessories.

The newlywed couple will make their home on the groom's farm at Spruce Valley.

If you can't get behind a movement for the good of the community, the least you can do is get out from in front of it.

THE Homemaker

By BERTHA M. McCUTCHEON

Miss Raw Gates, Home Service Director of Northwestern Utilities has these suggestions and recipes for barbecued meals:

FIRE BUILDING

Make pyramid of charcoal, add liquid starter; wait a minute; light.

B. McCutcheon

When coals are burning well, rake out evenly over entire firebox. With charcoal, don't poke fire—that slows it. A chimney (made by removing both ends and punching triangular holes in a tall juice can or two-pound coffee can with punch type opener) placed over the pyramid of briquets speeds up the starting of fire—15 minutes and the fire is ready for steaks.

Don't start cooking until the fire dies down to glowing coals.

Bed of coals for broiling should be shallow and just a little larger than the area of food you are cooking.

For spit cooking use only part of firebox. Have the coals a little deeper and place slightly to rear of spit. Place a drip pan under meat.

To prevent smoke from fat, trim fat off edges of meat before broiling.

Keep a clothes sprinkler filled with water handy to stop flareups caused by fat dripping. Use only enough water to do the trick. Don't soak the coals.

Smoke flavor in the food can be obtained by using hickory, oak, mahogany, maple or fruit wood chips or sawdust in the fire; or liquid smoke or smoke salt on the food or in the barbecue sauces.

CUTS OF MEAT TO BARBECUE

Beef-Club, T-Bone, porterhouse and sirloin steaks. Chuck, round and flank steaks, if tenderized by commercial tenderizer or by marinating in a sauce for several hours. Rolled rib or standing rib roasts. Hamburger patties in various sizes and shapes if done in wire toaster or aluminum foil dish. Pork - Pork chops, ham steaks, spareribs; Boned and rolled pork roasts, boneless hams.

Lamb - Steaks or chops; Ground lamb for patties; leg of lamb, boned and rolled.

Poultry - Chickens, turkeys, cornish game hens, are all suitable for spit cooking or can be split in half and cooked on grill over hot coals.

Fish - Fillets, steaks or whole fish; Lobster tails, shrimp, scallops.

Vegetables - Potatoes and corn on the cob can be cooked in their natural coverings or wrapped in aluminum foil and placed on the grill or right in the hot coals.

Frozen vegetables can be put on a square of aluminum foil, seasoned with salt and pepper and dotted with butter, then wrapped securely and cooked on the grill or right in the coals for 10-15 minutes. Turn frequently.

GIANTBURGERS

2 eggs
1½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. garlic salt
2 lbs. ground beef
2tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
Pepper.

Mix ingredients together lightly; divide into thirds. Using a 9" cake pan as a guide, draw a circle on waxed paper. Place a third of the meat in centre and pat gently (or place waxed paper on top too, and roll lightly with rolling pin) to fill circle. Do not press hard. Leaving 1" margin for sealing, spread half patty with mustard, top with chopped onion, cubes of cheese,, pickle relish or what have you. Lift point of waxed paper at back and fold meat over filling. Press around the margin to form seal. Brush top side with melted butter, place in wire toaster basket; peel off waxed paper. Broil slowly. Serve with toasted buns.

NOTICE TO RATEPAYERS OF THE COUNTY OF ATHABASCA No. 12

Re: Prairie Farm Assistance

The office of the Prairie Farm Assistance has been receiving a number of requests from municipal and county officials and from farmers for directions as to the correct procedure in cases where the farmer decides to plow down acreages of seeded grain.

It would be of great assistance to the staff and would assist to speed up inspection work, if the farmer would list with the municipal secretary-treasurer the quarter section concerned, the acreage and type of grain plowed under. It would also be helpful if the farmer could leave a few feet of crop standing at the end of the field so that PFA Field Inspectors could identify the acreage in their reports.

Auctioneer Walter Kitt Wins Provincial Poster Trophy

Walter H. Kitt, Two Hills Auctioneer, is again winner of the Silver Cup Trophy for the 4th time at the Convention of Auctioneers' Association of Alberta, held at the Airlines Hotel in Edmonton recently.

Mr. Daines is a long-time experienced member in the auctioneering field, and pointed out that of all the advertising at the contest, Mr. Kitt had one of the best posters in the entire province. It is of the right size and proportion, a very neat and clean print and well balanced all around, to be displayed anywhere, and is eye catching.

Mr. Kitt is a graduate of two auctioneering schools and is doing a professional job. He is a member of the Auctioneers' Association of Alberta and attends all conventions in this field. He is also on the board of directors for North Eastern Alberta and serves on other committees.

Everyone at the banquet congratulated Mr. Kitt and gave him a hardy round of applause.

There are 300 auctioneers in the province with seventy percent of them being members of the Association. Those that are not members don't realize what they are missing, and Mr. Kitt suggested that all should join to make the organization really strong.

At the convention, it was declared that the third Saturday in June be Auctioneer's Holiday, and that no sales be held that day as the convention will be scheduled every year for that date.

The Auctioneers' convention for 1962 will be held on the third Saturday of June at the Cascade Hotel in Banff. Every auctioneer should remember that day and plan to attend the convention. "Banff here we come", was the way Mr. Kitt expressed himself for next year.

WALTER KITT

The trophy cup was presented to Mr. Kitt at the convention banquet by Mr. Snowden Daines of Innisfail who was one of the judges in the contest for having the best Auction Sale poster in the the Province of Alberta.

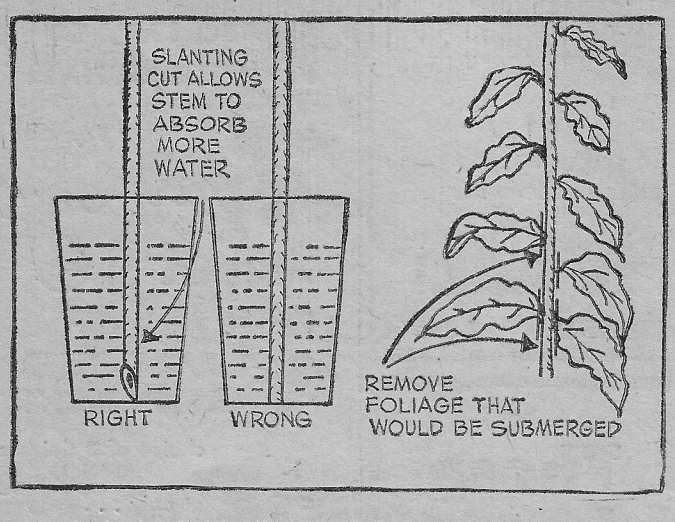
Garden Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY



ENJOYING CUT FLOWERS LONGER

"My flowers wilt so quickly" is a remark I hear so often from new gardeners trying their hand at flower arranging.

Certainly it is discouraging after completing a flower arrangement to find the blossoms and foliage completely wilted within a few hours. The importance of correct care of cut flowers cannot be over-emphasized and their length of life may be increased by following a few simple rules.

Early in the morning, or better still, after sundown at night, is the best time for cutting garden flowers.

Do not put flowers into containers with the ends merely cut off in a straight line. Make a slanting cut on the end of the stem, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

This keeps each stem from resting squarely on the bottom of the container and the long, slanting cut gives greater area for the flower to absorb water. Thus it will last longer.

Remove any foliage (lower leaves) which would be submerged in the water, as shown. Underwater, foliage rots, causing bacteria to develop which is harmful to the flowers.

If a flower is extra large and top-heavy on a long, weak stem, slit the bottom end of the stem for several inches. This enables it to absorb more water and keep the flower fresh.

Flowers cut in the evening and kept in deep, cool water over night for seasoning will last better in arrangements than those cut and used at once.

Keep cut flowers cool, out of drafts and sun.

Dr. Cairns Reports On School For Retarded Children At Veg.

Dr. R. R. Cairns, president of the Vegreville Association for Mentally Handicapped Children, reports that the attendance has ranged from eight to 10 children since the school was opened in September, 1960.

Dr. Cairns says that through the generosity and support of individuals, service clubs, ladies' associations, the Scout Association, the School Boards and the Department of Education and excellent classroom has been reasonably well equipped.

Mrs. Dorothy Cairns proved an excellent teacher and she had very capable assistance from Mrs. Dora Hughes. The children made good academic progress, within the limits of their capabilities. A marked improvement was noted in their social behavior. Highlights of the year were a trip to the Edmonton Zoo, a barbecue at the home of Mrs. Albright, a Christmas party at Mrs. Cairns' home, a Christmas concert put on by the children, and an outdoor picnic at the Soils Research Sub-Station. The children all made a sincere effort in the academic work and in several cases excellent progress resulted.

"The parents of the children, the members of the Association, and others interested in the project wish to thank all of the people of the Vegreville area for their thoughtful and considerate support of this work. We feel that they have opened the door that will allow the light to shine in the lives of these children. We extend a sincere invitation to parents of children not enrolled this season to enrol their children for the next school year. Applications have already been received from Bruce and Bonnyville. Thanks again to one and all." says Dr. Cairns.

The Armour Of God Bible School Theme

The theme of the lessons prescribed by the General Board of Religious Education of the Anglican Church for their week-long Daily Vacation Bible School held recently was "The Armour of God", based on Ephesians, chapter 6. This is a four-year course, repeated every four years.

The St. Andrew's Anglican Church had a good attendance during the week with Rev. A. W. Swinton in charge and assisted by two Van ladies of the Diocese of Athabasca, Mrs. Edith Clements and Miss Deborah Johns, also Miss Ruby Waraawa, a local girl.

The girls made trinkets of sequins for handicraft and the boys constructed bird houses.

Vacation Bible Schools under the leadership of Rev. Swinton will also be held at Wandering River, Grassland and Rich Lake.

At total of 175 calfs went off the auction block at a joint 4-H calf club championship show and sale of calves was held at the Edmonton Exhibition grounds July 5. Eleven clubs from Strathcona MD, Sturgeon County, Stony Plain MD and Lamont MD took part.

Groups included Alcomdale, Ardrossan, Fort Saskatchewan, Gibbons, Holborn, Lake Mere, Skaro, Spruce Grove, St. Albert-Namao, Villeneuve and White Rose.

SHOWMAN BILL PAUL

Bill Paul of the St. Albert-Namao Club won the Don Ball trophy as grand championship showman. Reserve championship showman went to Clayton McWhirter of Gibbons. He received the Royal Bank of Canada Trophy.

Judged overall champion of all club entries of grand champions, was the calf shown by G. Soetaert of the Villeneuve club. Another member of the same club, Loretta Lema, took the overall reserve title for her calf.

Best group of calves was from the Villeneuve group and gave the club the Alberta Livestock Co-op trophy.

At the noon banquet, Shorthorn Hereford and Aberdeen Angus representatives presented prizes to club members showing animals in each breed.

Auctioneer Don Ball and sales manager Robert Briggs, an Aberdeen Angus breeder from east Edmonton, conducted the sale of 175 calves. Considering the disastrous condition of the western cattle scene officials deemed the sale exceptionally good, with an overall average of 21.04 per hundred.

Other buyers were Gainers Ltd., 26; Burns and Company, 25; Swift Canadian, 14; Canada Packers, 13; Weiller & Williams, 3; Newman Plumbing, 2; Mr. Hoftstitis, 2; and eight other local buyers.

GUSTATORY AMENITY

A missioner travelling through the jungle came suddenly upon a lion. Flight was hopeless; the missioner dropped quickly to his knees in anxious prayer. Minutes later he was greatly comforted to note that the lion had fallen on his knees beside him. "Dear Brother Lion" exclaimed the missioner in great relief, "how good to see you joining me in prayer. Only a minute ago I despaired for my life."

"Quiet," snapped the lion. "I'm saying grace."
